Dear community member

As previously advised, we have today started the stand down of our operations in preparation for our £140M plant investment project.

To do this, we are currently using our elevated flare. But to minimise community disruption we have taken actions to ensure this is for a limited period of time only. The size of the flare will also visibly decrease relatively quickly.

The use of our flare is planned, part of its design function, and completely safe.

The stand down will enable a programme of upgrade work to be carried out to help reduce the frequency of unplanned flaring by improving reliability.

We will continue to keep you updated on progress, and will confirm with you when we have completed the phase requiring the use of our elevated flare.

As always, should you have any questions do please let us know.

Best regards

Martin Burrell
